

Supporting Children after Terrorist Incidents

Resources

Jonny Timms, Deputy Head (Pastoral)

The current threat level in the UK is now set at Critical after the attack in Manchester on Monday. We are therefore considering this advice in our risk assessments and planning for out-of-school trips. This does not necessarily mean that visits should not go ahead. The boys will certainly notice that there is heightened security in London and other major cities and they may be frightened or apprehensive about this. There is no specific guidance from the government to schools, but this is advice from the London Borough of Havering "Keeping children safe on school trips" may be useful.

Further Information

- Visits and the threat from terrorism \(Outdoor Education Advisors' Panel\) (PDF)
- Off-Site Visit Emergencies: Guidance for Leaders \(Outdoor Education Advisors' Panel\) (PDF)

Resources for helping children cope

- Advice if you're upset by the news \(Newsround\)
- Supporting children worried about terrorism \(NSPCC\)
- Responding to children affected by the media coverage of the incident in Manchester \(Winston's Wish\)
- Supporting children after a frightening event \(Leaflet from David Trickey, Consultant Clinical Child Psychologist\)
- How to explain the horror of terrorism to your children \(Telegraph\)
- Recognising the terrorist threat \(HM Govt.\)